DEDICATION

Mrs. Harriet Swain Hurt, Dean of Girls, beloved member of our English department since our doors opened, dramatics teacher and director, sponsor of our Senior Honor Society and the Sub Deb Club, and sophomore home room teacher, died in Richmond February 23, 1953.

"Her line had gone out to all the earth." This was evidenced by the many spontaneous tributes received from her students at home and in far-away places. The following is a letter from one of her devoted students from the Kingdom of Yemen

LAFAYETTE COLLEGE
EASTON, PENN.
MARCH 9, 1953

My dear Mrs. Hurt,

Why did you forsake us?

Yes, I understand that you answered the call of Him who calls those with pure hearts. They tell me that you are with us no more, but that is too much for my imagination. Only those with poor deeds die but people like you with good deeds live forever. Instead of living in a brick house on a noisy street, you will live in the depths of our hearts.

You helped me and so many other boys and girls like me, so much Mrs. Hurt, and through your goodness, you made life worthwhile. For this reason we have the right to cry because that guidance, help, and love which you always afforded us have been taken away.

Rest Mrs. Hurt, rest peacefully in the presence of God and enjoy His company which you richly deserve. We, the poor ones, shall remain in this cruel world until we have finished our duty.

Rest in peace . . .

RASHID ABDU

President, STUDENT COUNCIL ASSOCIATION, 1951-52

D E D I C A T I O N

We, of the Yearbook Staff, are but the voice of the JAGUAR; its mind, its heart, rest in a thousand minds and hearts, and we can but speak for them.

And so we know that we are not a few, but many, as we pause in the opening pages of our book for these few lines of quiet admiration.

It is with humble thanks that we linger here, for every one who has known her, from the President of the Honor Society to the newest student of the drama has felt the touch of her helping hand, and become the better for it. It is for this . . . for the aid, for the guidance, for every untiring moment and unselfish thought that we here rise as one to give voice to our silent words of gratitude.

And so to your spirit, Mrs. Harriet Swain Hurt, wherever it may be, we dedicate the JAGUAR of 1953; and when we slowly turn these leaves a dozen years from now we will stop a moment here and softly say . . .

"Mrs. Hurt? Yes . . . she was my friend, too."

Foreword

This is an American high school. It is a good one. Twelve hundred people spend three-fourths of their year in these halls, these classrooms. Most of them like it.

In this book you will see many faces, many moments which have made this school home to these people for five years; the people, the dances, the games, the classes.

You'll meet future statesmen, executives, soldiers, doctors, lawyers, artists, writers, farmers. You'll see them growing up . . . working and playing together . . . and enjoying it. You'll meet the students and teachers who have led the school through the years with a steady hand and a sure heart; you'll meet the student body whom they have so faithfully served.

May these pages help them to recapture the happy hours that have been spent within these rooms, and may their spirit always remain an integral part of the spirit of Falls Church High School.

Only a School?

It's funny how a high school gets under your skin.

The first time you walk into its silent hallways it doesn't mean much of anything at all . . . just another school, another building to swallow you up through the long winter. And maybe it's that way the second time you come . . . or the third.

The people walking about you don't seem to be much different from the people you've known all your life; met at the movies or on the beach or in the gaiety of a party. Some you like, some you don't like. A few you find you like better than the rest.

The classes don't seem to change so much from year to year, either. The teachers and the subjects become different teachers and different subjects, but there is always, it seems, the same quality of restlessness as you wait for the bell . . . wait and wonder what time it is and draw pictures on the desk or your books or the sweater of the guy in front of you.

The dances are just as crowded as the ones before and the ones before those; the faces are the same, and though you may not be able to see them too clearly at times, you recognize them and forget them without too much interest.

The ball games are win, lose, or draw. The losses always hurt, the draws annoy you and a few of the wins stand out in your mind. But the crowd's voice is the same voice, month after month; the same plays parade before you on gridiron, court, diamond. The whole colorful pageant whirls together in a crazy-quilt of laughter and sorrow, success and failure. It's one big lark, one big sob, with the highlights poking out occasionally as you find a flower from your first Prom or your old track shoes or your society pin, stuck away in the closet beneath the stairs. You can't separate the merry-go-round in your mind; you can only look at the old souvenirs tucked into your dresser and think . . . "Has it been that long?" And you realize it has.

And then one day, you begin to notice things that never meant very much before. You see the people around you . . . the guys and girls with whom you struggled through Julius Caesar and biology and Spanish I . . . moving, one by one, into those big, way-up jobs in the school. You see your own lockermate catch the touchdown pass that wins the game and suddenly the excitement of the crowd is your excitement, your thrill, your cheers; and it means more to you than you had ever guessed. The duties that you vaguely heard of being done become your duties, your responsibilities; the citizenship that went home with the three-ten bell last year stays on now, and makes you proud of it and of your friends as you watch them building, improving, driving on and on.

The music at the formals never seemed quite so sweet before; each dance sounds shorter than you remembered, and many times as nice. The decorations are brighter, the girls prettier, the time so much more precious . . . the parties . . . the movies . . . the part in the play, the career book, the trip to New York, the SIPA conference. It's no longer the mad, spinning world of noise and color; instead it becomes hours, minutes, seconds spent in doing things which mean so much and are gone so quickly . . . yet remain.

You begin to look at the people around you; the people whom you have admired and respected. You begin to wonder if you'll ever see them again after . . . well, you know. You wonder, "What will he become? What will she do, and where will he go? Will our paths ever cross again?"

And you find yourself hoping that they will.

You remember how, as a Junior, you watched your friends in last year's class as they clung to those final, few, precious weeks before June and wondered . . . "How do they feel . . . so close to goodbye?" And now you know.

You, too, cling to the days, stretching them, enjoying every corner and nook of time left to you to laugh and live the life you've suddenly found . . . and want so much.

And then there aren't any hours left, and then no minutes, and then . . . no time at all.

The goodbyes are said in different ways. Quite a few are scrawled across the blank page in the back of a yearbook; some impersonal, some with a warmth and depth that will never be forgotten. Others will be dropped into a little box with a hundred other name cards, and will vanish beneath the soon-dusty top.

A few will be said on a speaker's platform, or on the sidewalks outside Lisner Auditorium.

A few will be said quietly on front doorsteps, and will be noticed only by the people concerned.

And pretty soon all the hallways are dark and quiet in Falls Church High; the life has come and passed away once more. There are no voices, no laughter. A building, empty and silent.

Just another high school, again?

I wonder.

COACHES TODD AND WEBER

Jaguars in Action

The 1953 Jaguars, although a young, light team compiled one of the best records in many years, winning six games, losing two, and tying two.

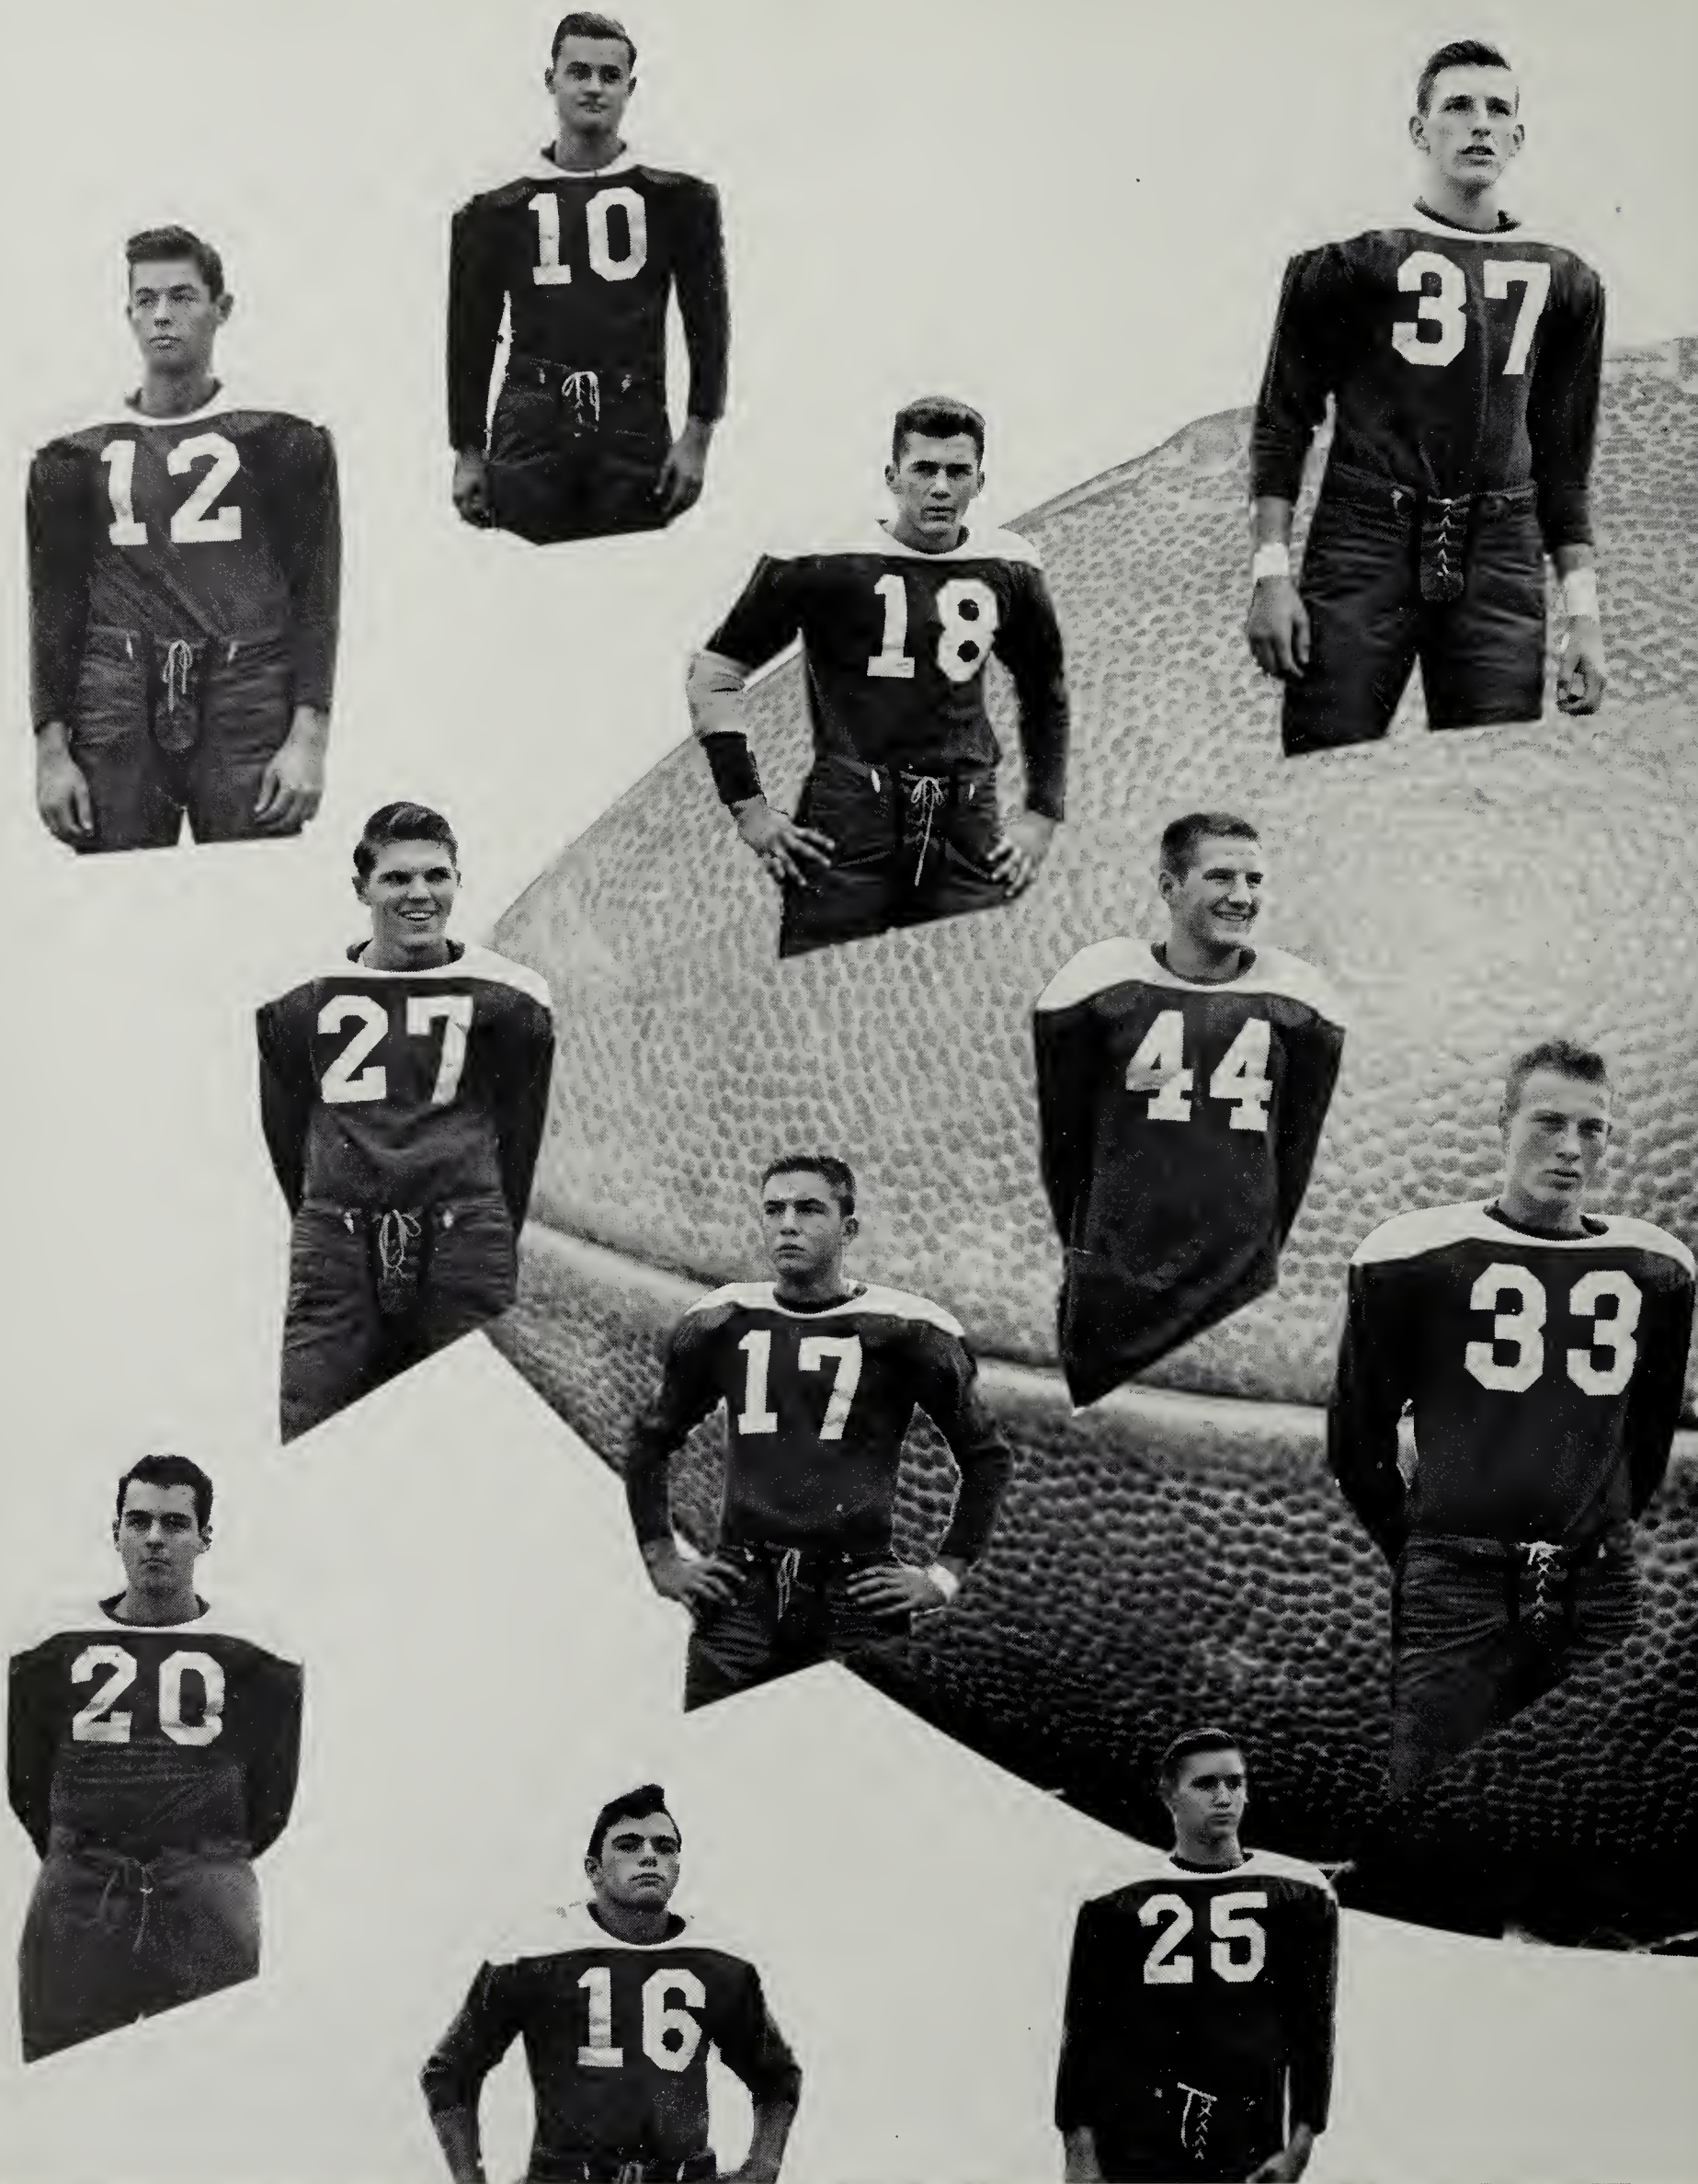

Even though at times the offense seemed to lack scoring punch, the defensive line was one of the best in the state.

Coach Tom Todd's boys, running from the split "T", scored 154 points to their opponents' 62.

The Mount Vernon and Fairfax games were the highlights of the season. Rated a three-touchdown underdog in both games Falls Church battled Mount Vernon to a 6-6 tie and deadlocked with Fairfax 0-0.

Outstanding players awarded positions on honor teams were: John Hargett, named to four teams, one being the All-State team; J. C. Hockman, the All-State team, and Northern Virginia All-High team. J. C. was also voted the most valuable player on the squad. James Zirkle, Robert (Mo) Auringer, and Eve Covington were also named as honorable mentions on the All-Surburban team.

Jerry Hazelgrove, the versatile captain, sparked the team throughout the entire season, although he was unable to play in the Gaithersburg and James Monroe games because of a knee injury.

Student Council Association

Leadership and citizenship are the keystone of any organization — of any high school. The Student Council Association was set up to lead the school, and to serve as the example of citizenship and service for the student body.

David Frye has led the Council through the last year with decision and purpose; under his guiding hand, the activities and programs which form the core of the school's life have been brought into reality; a reality for which we, the students, are grateful.

The F.H.A. Club has been very active in the school this year. With a total of 65 members, much has been accomplished.

Among the various national and local activities, the F.H.A. has participated in National F.H.A. Week, when Mrs. Harriet S. Hurt was made an honorary member. UNESCO stamps were purchased and the money was used to buy kitchen equipment for a home economics class in Libya. The club sent two boxes of gifts for the World Christmas Festival to children in war-torn countries. This year members of the club purchased material and made work aprons for the boys in shop classes. The club has had very interesting programs with outstanding speakers, one being Mrs. Elizabeth Rogg, Editor of Teen Times, the National F.H.A. magazine. As a climax to the year the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet was held in May.

Shirley Case, President of our Chapter in 1951-1952, was reporter for the Martha Washington Federation this year.

The purposes of the F.H.A. are: to promote a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of homemaking, to emphasize the importance of worthy home membership, to encourage democracy in home and community life, to work for good home and family life for all, to promote international good will, to foster the development of creative leadership in home and community, to provide wholesome individual and group recreation, and to further interests in home economics.

The Science Club is affiliated with the Science Clubs of America. It has five aims: To study facts, principles, and clauses to spread the knowledge of science; to respect the right of others to express their opinions on scientific matter; to apply scientific principles in verifying or refuting findings which seem questionable; to apply scientific methods, reasoning and logic to the conduct of personal affairs; and to uphold these ideas of tradition of true science. This year to become a more efficient group, the club has been divided into three divisions: the chemistry and physics, the arts and crafts, and biology.

Sweetheart Court

Miss Carol Schoolar, Sweetheart of 1952, is pictured crowning Jean Waters, lovely Sweetheart of 1953, in accordance with the tradition at Falls Church High School. Jean and her attendants proceeded to the throne through an archway resembling the pages of a book, after which Carol Schoolar sang "Sweetheart," as a tribute to the new queen. The orchestra continued the selection, Jean stepped down from her throne, and with her escort, began the Court Dance.

As in previous years, the Sweetheart Dance was one of the most successful of the year.

Homecoming Court

Traditional rivalry reigned when Falls Church met Fairfax at the annual Homecoming Game. During half-time in a fitting ceremony Mr. Barrett presented Carole Tower with a gold football.

Highlighting the Homecoming week-end was the formal dance at which last year's queen, Jane Longacker, presented a white football signed by the members of the team, and Tom Penn, the president of the Senior Class, crowned Carole Tower Homecoming Queen of 1952-53.

FINDERS CREEPERS

Hercules and Wilbur visit Herc's uncle and are aghast when they learn that Mr. Nelson has recently become an undertaker. However, Wilbur is immediately attracted to Herc's cousin, Celeste, and they decide to stay. They learn from Claude, the caretaker, who has a crush on Daphne, the maid, that Jason T. Quigley, a wealthy and supposedly dead old man, was placed in the next room. Mr. Quigley refuses to stay on his slab and strolls around in the boys' room carrying on a conversation with them. Hercules tells Nina about the walking dead man, who in turn tells Mr. Schuster, Madeline, and Dr. Brown. This leads to complications involving the Nelsons, but these are solved by Frankie who is assisted by Granny. Naturally the villain is properly dealt with in the end.

The Senior Class chose its play by almost unanimous acclaim. "Arsenic and Old Lace" by Joseph Kesselring, was a joyful undertaking from try-outs to final performance. Pat North and Betsy Sullivan as the plump little murderesses in their sixties, Fred Boes and Dave Rogers as the sinister Jonathan and the inebriated Dr. Einstein, respectively, Keith Gardiner as the harried young dramatic critic, and Charles Friend, an inimitable Teddy, performed excellently. Virginia Grille, student director, Dave Frye, producer, Diana Godfrey and Janet Cunningham in charge of sets shared honors with many faithful seniors in making our major dramatic effort a success.

This year the P. T. A. has succeeded in having an auditorium for the students of Falls Church High included in the building program financed by the bond issue which it sponsored.

For the first time in the history of the school the P. T. A. is offering two scholarships of one hundred dollars each, one to an outstanding senior boy, and one to an outstanding senior girl.

Since 1951 the Activities Plaque records P. T. A. awards to students distinguished by efforts in many subject fields.

The dues membership, the largest it has ever been, has been our sole means of finance.

Au Revoir, Falls Church High School

We of the Class of '53 would like to take this opportunity to say goodbye.

For five years we have made our way through Falls Church High. We have contributed a little; we have learned a great deal. Now, our time is done.

It is our most sincere wish that you, the future graduates, will faithfully protect the traditions which have guided us throughout the years; that you will guide your classmates with a steady hand and an understanding heart; that you will serve your classmates with unbending loyalty and sure purpose at all times.

To David Houser, Bill Chase, Anne Chapman, Donna Wood — we leave the example of leaders of this year and years past; that they may be led by the light of the servants of the past, and, in turn, leave a light to guide their successors.

To the administration and faculty we leave our deepest gratitude for their guidance and understanding, and our sincere regrets for the gray hairs we have caused them.

To the spirit of Falls Church High we leave our belief in the future; that, in these happy years we have built the foundations of our lives; lives which will be better for our visit here. Thank you, Falls Church High School; we will not forget.
